

“Captivating children with genuine thought provoking life lessons using entertainment to convey an Anti-Bullying message in a way they will never forget”

“Bully Detective” Anti-Bullying Show

THE TIME IS NOW!

Dear Friends,

My name is Steve Gambrell and my mission is to help educators just like you to reach students in unique ways that enhance your educational program. I am only successful when you are successful.

For years I have had the honor of captivating audiences of children and adults nationwide. I provide high quality, educational programs that are custom designed to meet the needs of my clients. In an entertaining and fun way, I help my audiences learn, remember and look forward to more.

Each highly visual show is a mix of magic, puppets and award winning balloons, with lots of audience participation.

Bullying has become a huge problem. We have to do everything possible to put an end to it. Now more than ever children need to hear about bullying. Because children develop many of their social skills at a very young age, this education needs to start at the earliest ages possible. A show that teaches these young children what bullying is, how it hurts everyone, and what to do about it is an entertaining and appropriate way to educate these young children. During my show, Bully Detective, different types of bullying will be presented in ways the children will never forget. The children will also sign an “Official Bully Detective” pledge sheet and pledge to help to stop bullying.

Each show is 30-60 minutes long. After the show each child will receive an “Official Bully Detective” pledge sheet to sign.

Here is what just a few of my clients are saying about me:

“If you are looking for an entertainer who also educates – Steve is the one to hire. Through his own personal experience, caring and compassionate personality and talent in ventriloquism, balloon creations and magic Steve brings together a show that also contains a message for every child – from 2 to 82!”

Kori Wilson, Early Childhood Educator and Trainer

“Steve, you are extremely the best balloon man, not only in Baltimore, but in the country, that I’ve ever seen.”

John Kinderman Taylor WMAR (ABC television affiliate in Baltimore, MD) from “The Kinderman Show”, Steve was a guest for several episodes.

“Are you looking for an electrifying, exhilarating, impressive show to captivation your audience? Well, Mr. Steve Gambriel, “The Extreme Balloon Man” has just the show for you. “The Extreme Balloon Man” performs a sensational show incorporating magic, balloons, puppets, ventriloquism and a trunk full of surprises to captive audiences of all ages. His performances are not only thrilling and lively; he is also able to convey educational topics including social skills, family life and overall positive life skills. These messages are well received by the audience and leave a lasting impression and messages due to his entertaining approach. His creativity and ability to involve the audience in his show leaves the audience on the edge of their seats, mesmerized, learning and always wanting more. He has mastered the art of entertaining as well as educating and his show is simply something you would not want to miss.”

Erin Tancemore, LCSW-C School Based Child and Family Therapist

“Hi Steve – I just wanted to let you know how much everyone enjoyed the "Seeking Treasure" program on July 18th at the Perry Hall Library. We had multiple people comment on how high-quality and family-friendly the program was. I've posted the feedback to our internal programming blog, but just wanted to let you know as well. Thank you, and hope we can work together again at some point.”

Sincerely, Melanie Brevis, Programming Coordinator
